Feintool: world's leading system provider for fineblanking/forming technology.

Presses, tools and technology services from the market leader

Feintool owes its leadership position to an array of technical total solutions that is unique in the world. Apart from a wide range of mechanical and hydraulic fineblanking presses Feintool can also supply its customers with the peripheral systems to go with them. Tool systems, consulting and customer-specific problem analysis, engineering and training, and an efficient customer service complete the Feintool portfolio of products and services.

Perfect interoperation of machines, tool systems, materials technology and component design is vital to the success of any project. Particularly in this respect Feintool stands out clearly from its competitors. Feintool is a single source of all these core competencies and can thus guarantee integral technology consulting and comprehensive customer support.
